The Song of the Cradle.
Bye, bye! Hope rises high,
And a sweet little cradle
Is afloat in the sky;
A dear little life that is Coming to bless;
Two soft chubby hands
That will pat and caress;
A pure little soul winged down here above;
A darling to care for, a
Baby to love.

In the days when Eve sinned
it was written that motherhood should hereafter be accompanied with pain and sorrow;
but this curse upon our forefathers has been lifted more and more as mankind has learned to rise superior to many of their sins and mistakes.

One of the grandest agencies which enlightened Science has discovered to relieve motherhood from excessive suffering is the "Favorite Prescription" devised by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. This wonderful "Prescription" imbues the entire nervous system with natural, healthy vitality; gives elastic vigor to the delicate organism specially concerned in motherhood; renders the prospect of mother strong and cheerful and makes the coming of baby entirely free from danger and almost free from pain. The delighted gratitude of Mrs. Pearl Walton of Alvo, Cass Co., Neb., will find echo in the heart of every expectant mother.

"Precious is the birth of my child," writes Mrs. Walton, "I had no appetite, was sick at my stomach, had headache, could not rest at night, was completely fatigued in every way. I commenced to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and began to improve right away. I used two doses of the great medicine, and felt like a new person. At the time of confinement I was in labor but a little while, and I owe it all to that great remedy—Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

Dr. Pierce's Pill's cure constipation.

It Was the Right Letter.
John was a bashful lover and had been calling on Mary for three years, but that was as far as he got until, visiting St. Louis on business, he found himself detained beyond the expected time.

He had to write to Mary, explaining his absence on the usual evening, and, while writing, the courage he had so long lacked came to him and he made a point blank proposal of marriage. He mailed the letter, and for two hours was one of the happiest men in Missouri. Then he began to believe he had been precipitate and was assailed with doubt as to how his letter would be received. That night he didn't sleep. He thought all sorts of things, and vainly wished he could intercept the letter before it reached her. But that was manifestly impossible.

It was not until noon the next day that he received an inspiration as he was passing a telegraph office. Rushing in, he seized a blank and nervously penned the following:

Miss Mary —, Chicago:

Mailed you wrong letter yesterday. Please do not open, and deliver to me on my return.

After that he breathed freer, at the same time wondering if he hadn't played the fool in not letting the matter stand. That evening a telegram was awaiting him at the hotel. It read:

John —, St. Louis:

You mailed right letter. It was about time.

And John didn't allow himself to think over it.

CORPORATIONS AND TRUSTS.

Corporations were an invention of the Greeks. Plato, the Athenian philosopher, received from the people of Athens a grant of certain privileges and rights in the nature of a franchise for his school taught at that place. Our half-civilized ancestors had very little use for corporate powers, and it was not till civilization and commerce had taken organized form that corporations came into general use. The large business interests of the last half of the present century have been the cause of the development of corporate business action upon an enlarged scale. These business interests have also furnished the means to unfold the convenience of corporate authority in controlling and directing business enterprise. The safety to investment of money, the protection given to property, the celerity with which large money and general property investments are disposed of under corporate combination and direction have largely commanded a corporate management to those who seek opportunity to invest capital, and to those engaged in general business, or commercial pursuits. A corporate form for the control and direction of business enterprise is one of the most innocent and pure methods that could be devised for the protection of property. The experience of the business world, in the absence of a better system, has caused the adoption for general business purposes of the corporate system of combination for undertakings requiring large capitalization. The purity and safety of the corporation commands it to upright business people as a proper means to arrive at a legitimate end which is a fair return for an investment made when conducted upon upright principles. But when otherwise conducted, a corporation may be made one of the most gigantic means of oppression the world has known. Corporate power in the control and under the direction of designing and dishonest men may be made a lash to scourge the back of each toiler within the dominion of its power to oppress. Whole communities may be and are oppressed through the exercise of corporate authority and power. Commonwealths are made to feel the iron heel that treads the prostrate forms of a powerless people enslaved. Nations feel, and will in a tenfold manner in the future feel the giant step of corporate power, unless those who are yet free take warning and act for their own protection and the protection of others who have ceased to be free because they are under corporate control.

Large combinations of capital should be encouraged when used in a legitimate way and for legitimate purposes, but when used to control commerce and individual trade, capital combination becomes criminal. Large capitalization when used for any improper purpose becomes criminal because the interests of individuals, communities and commonwealths are injured by the improper use of combined capital. The ability to accomplish in the individual is in the exercise of individual liberty. Deprive the citizen of his individuality and his usefulness is destroyed. The ability of the individual in trade, commerce, or in business in its various departments is in his individuality, in his personal enterprise. When individual enterprise is without protection it becomes discouraged and sick and will cease to live in the individual man, and with the destruction of the individual man will come sickness of communities and commonwealths.

Trusts are criminal because they attack and are against individual commerce and enterprise. The purpose and work of a trust is in opposition to public policy and for that reason is criminal and should be removed. Whatever is against public policy is in opposition to the State and its interest, and is therefore criminal. The man who uses his money against the State is more to be feared than the man in arms. Force will meet force, but the insidious attack of a trust upon the industries of the country and commerce of the people is an attack under the color of law and right, while it takes the life from the arteries of industry, and closes the doors of the individual merchant and mechanic.

The man who invests his capital in a trust is no better, and his capital should have no more protection than the man and his property who is guilty of treason against the State, because the one in morale is as guilty as the other and should be made so in law.

News of a Day in Very Brief Sentences.

Proved His Theory, but Died. The acme of realism was reached, though by accident, in a criminal trial a few years ago at Lebanon, O.

Two men had a personal encounter. One of them, after vainly trying to draw his pistol from his hip pocket, turned to flee. A moment later he fell, shot in the small of the back. One chamber of his pistol was found to have been fired. His assailant was tried for murder.

The defense contended that the man had shot himself while trying to draw his pistol, which had become entangled in the lining of the pocket, and that the prisoner's shot had not taken effect.

The prosecution contended that such a wound could not have been self inflicted.

The defendant's counsel, Clement L.

Vallandigham, undertook to demonstrate to the jury just how the dead man's pistol had hung in the pocket and just how possible it was to inflict such a wound.

Suddenly there was a loud report, and the lawyer sank to the floor. The ball had entered the back almost in the identical spot where the dead man had been shot.

The defendant was acquitted. Mr. Vallandigham died. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

About 'Em' Even Things.

A well known member of the Detroit bar tells this story: "Some years ago I attended a session of the circuit court up in the state. A pro confesso divorce case was called and it so happened that the judge was very much opposed to divorces, especially those which were unopposed. After the attorney for the complainant in this case had announced himself as ready to proceed, the judge asked if any one appeared for the defendant. There was silence for a moment, and the judge repeated the question. At one end of the lawyers' table sat an attorney who had acquired the liquor habit and who was at the time considerably under the influence of stimulants. He was noticed struggling to get on his feet, and, on observing him, the judge seized the opportunity to ask:

"Do you appear for the defendant, Mr. Blank?"

"No, your honor. I merely rose to remark, as 'friend of the court,' that for Brother Doubleblank as attorney for the complainant and no one on the other side it was about an even thing."

"Then Blank resumed his seat while the whole court roared with laughter."

—Detroit Free Press.

The Foot of a Horse.

The foot of a horse is one of the most ingenious and unexampled pieces of mechanism in animal structure. The hoof contains a series of vertical and thin laminae of horn, amounting to about 500 and forming a complete lining to it. In this are fitted as many laminae belonging to the coffin bone, while both sets are elastic and adherent. The edge of a quire of paper, inserted leaf by leaf into another, will convey a sufficient idea of the arrangement. Thus the weight of the animal is supported by as many elastic springs as there are laminae in all the feet, amounting to about 4,000, distributed in the most secure manner, since every spring is acted on in an oblique direction.

Deaths of Heroes in Fiction.

It is astonishing what a human interest the reading public takes in an author's heroes and heroines. Mr. Snowden Ward declares that when Dickens was writing "The Old Curiosity Shop" he was overwhelmed with letters from the most distinguished men and women begging him not to kill Little Nell. They declared it would be too cruel and waited on his verdict as an anxious family on that of the physician. Dickens did not care to do away with her himself, but it was necessary that he should do so. Little Nell was a character with too little of the earth earthy about her to assimilate with those around her, no matter how well meaning they might have been. Her finer feelings would have made her unhappy, and the little country churchyard was the best place for her.

And Thackeray. How he was implored not to kill Colonel Newcome. How he was rated for reducing so noble a man to poverty in his old age, while the meaner mortals around him lived and thrived. Kipling had to give a second version of his "The Light That Failed" in order to please the public, and who knows but Shakespeare was chided for the unhappy taking off of Lear and Cordelia? But the public, though soft hearted in the concrete, is a flint in the abstract. It soaks its handkerchief with tears over the consumptive cough of that shady Parisian Camille and turns a nice homemade understudy out on the cold world to eat snowballs or cold potatoes." —Louisville Times.

On the Wrong Man.

Bret Harte is so frequently complimented as the author of "Little Breeches" that he is almost as sorry it was ever written as is Colonel John Hay, who would prefer his fame to rest on more ambitious work. A gushing young lady, who prided herself upon her literary tastes, said to him once:

"My dear Mr. Harte, I am so delighted to meet you. I have read everything you ever wrote, but of all your dialect verse there is none that compares to your 'Little Breeches.'"

"I quite agree with you, madam," said Mr. Harte, "but you have put the little breeches on the wrong man."

Very Plain Reasons Why

We Sell Cheapest

Claims of supremacy are ineffectual unless they are backed by solid arguments that establish absolute facts. Exaggeration flows easily and smoothly from many retail sources. We could advertise wildly and frantically, but crediting the public with intelligence and powers of discrimination, we prefer to print our modest statement, and calmly sustain them with the most logical of reasons, for in France:

No retailer in the world buys goods more advantageously than the Novelty Dry Goods Store Co. Frequently we may not secure staple articles for less money than others pay, but we invariably sell cheaper.

BECAUSE WE ARE SATISFIED WITH SMALLER PROFITS

The actual amount paid for goods is only a part of their cash. Every man and woman understands that each department must contribute its pro rata percentage for general store expenses—including losses that the credit system involves.

Four Reasons Why Our Prices are Lowest:

WE DO NOT SELL ON CREDIT
WE DO NOT GIVE DISCOUNTS
WE ARE VERY CLOSE BUYERS
WE ARE NOT EXTRAVAGANT

Other stores tax cash customers for losses sustained by delinquent credit customers. Other stores levy tribute from you to compensate for discounts given on missions. WE ARE NOT EXTRAVAGANT. Do you grasp the full meaning of these words and comprehend their connection with your price? The NOVELTY is not an Extravagant Store. The merchandise, thoughts and features are always foremost. Brilliant and tawdry decorations are costly. The critical glare may please the fancy, but it increases the price of goods. Our practical and conservative methods of store management are novel and unique. Many houses indulge in spectacular display, but values are wholesome and distinctive.

NOVEL BASKET BALL.

The University Team Will Play a Team of Boys.

No undertaking is too great for a U. of N. college girl, especially if she is a member of the famous basket ball squad which last year dragged the cardinal of Stanford University in the dust. Not content with the laurels they have wrested from the athletic maidens of sunny California, they would fain brave a basket ball team composed of college men, not a few of whom have seen active service upon the track, field, diamond and gridiron, and unlikely as it may seem to one unfamiliar with the game, the girls have a good chance of winning.

Although the place and time are settled upon, the members of the respective teams have not yet been chosen, as several players on the college team have gone to their homes to spend the summer vacation. The game will be played next Friday evening in the University gymnasium.

The girls are already practicing and with their thorough knowledge of the game will have a great advantage over the boys, who know little if anything about the principles of basket ball. The big football Hercules who grips the sphere under his arm and dives through the players in a mad rush toward the basket, will promptly be called down on a foul, thus giving the girls a free try for goal. The game will, no doubt, be closely contested.

Alger Will Not Resign.

Late advices from Washington indicate that Secretary of War Alger and Governor Pinchot have been putting up a job on President McKinley. The Secretary when he returned to Washington after his visit to Michigan is reported to have said that he could attend to his duties as Secretary of War and to his canvass for the United Senatorship from his State very well and would not at present resign the war portfolio, which statement and refusal to resign it is thought will place the Administration in more of a hole than it will care to be in so near an election. Alger and the governor will make a canvass of the State on an anti-trust platform, which is claimed to mean McKinley will not make his next canvass on that sort of timber.

Who Will Be Governor?

The Supreme Court has adjourned until July 6th, when the gubernatorial squabble will be resumed and the counting of Empire and White Pine votes completed.

In the court of Churchill county yesterday, Sadler took five objections and McMillan three.

McMillan's attorneys reopened his case by beginning a recount of the Ormsby county ballots. In the count of Ormsby's first ward, nine objections were made by Sadler and six by McMillan. So the trouble still continues but the fact that McMillan's attorneys have reopened the case would seem to indicate that Sadler is getting a little the better of it.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work."

This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people.

Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50c. Sold by S. J. Hodgkinson Druggist.

Sacramento's Team Selected.

The Record-Union says of the coming relay race with Reno:

The try-out of the C. C. W. for team selection for the relay race at Reno on the Fourth of July has been held, and the men named. All that now remains is conscientious work, concessions to the action and decisions of the race meet committee, and then victory.

If that, however, rests upon the banners of the Reno Wheelmen, well and good—the Sacramento team will at least have the honor of having met specimen worthy of their steel.

The Reduction Works.

Contrary to reports the Reno reduction works will not be in active operation for about two weeks. Fourteen men are still at the works putting new machinery in position and repairing the furnaces, wasters and other apparatus. A large amount of ore is already on hand awaiting reduction, and other orders are being taken daily. The assay office and laboratory are not yet fully equipped, but a consignment of apparatus will arrive this week.

TRUCKEE TROUT.

Illegal Methods of Capturing the Speckled Beauties.

An angler writes from this city to the Examiner as follows:

Professional fishermen at the smelting works dam, east of the town, are daily violating the fish laws by catching trout with what is called a "chain gang," but as there does not appear to be an officer in Reno who will take the least notice of a transgression of the fish law, the fisherman laugh when told they are doing wrong. I understand that the office of Fish Commissioner for Nevada has been abolished. This is truly the wild and woolly end of creation.

The term "chain gang," as applied to fishing, means a number of large hooks tied to a strong line with a weight on the end. This is cast into the river under the dams, where large numbers of big fish congregate, unable to get over the obstruction. When the line is drawn in the poachers are rewarded with catches of anywhere from one to twelve large trout, which are shipped to Sacramento and the local markets.

To the credit of the California Commissioners be it said, that a strict watch is kept upon the market fishermen who attempt unlawful means of trout capture on this side of the dividing line. The Truckee river would have been thoroughly stocked with many varieties of trout long since, if the authorities of Nevada had only shown some inclination to stop the slaughter of trout which is of daily occurrence.

ALFRED NELSON.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now lost her own housework and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottle of this Great Discovery at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Large bottles 50 cents and $1.00.

Nevada is Growing.

Nevada is getting too large to be politically spanked and run in the interests of a corporation. The State is developing in every direction in spite of the efforts of the corporation to keep it back, and is preparing to administer the lash of justice to the corporation which has heretofore been so handy with another kind of whip. The corporation in question should not lose sight of the fact, however, that it is largely due to the methods employed by its political agents in this State that the bitterness which is felt against it exists.—Silver State.

Married.

Frank Galo and Agnes E. Steel, both of California, were married at the Riverside hotel parlors yesterday morning by Rev. Huddelson of the Baptist Church. Miss Black and Miss Lucile McBride were bridesmaids and County Clerk Frank Porter, scintillated resplendently as best man. This makes the seventh brace of Californians who in the last two days have come to Reno and entered the state of matrimony.

Vagrants to Work on Streets.

The vagrants and tramps in the county jail will be taken out to-day and put at work improving the streets. There will be about twenty men in the chain-gang. Verily, the life of the hobo is hard, so say, but it is still harder for the taxpayer to support him in idleness. Reno streets can stand much improvement, and the tramps can work as well as eat—that is, if compelled to.

Killed in a Prize Fight.

"Dutch" Neal, the St. Louis pugilist, who fell unconscious in the ring last Wednesday night in Chicago during the sixth round of a glove contest with Harry Peppers, the Californian middleweight, died to-day without having regained consciousness. Neal's death is attributed to a blood clot on the brain resulting from over exertion while in an unfit physical condition.

Peppers was arrested as soon as it became apparent that Neal's condition was serious and is now in jail in default of $2,000 bonds,

Morris Peppers, a resident of Reno and a brother to Harry Peppers, says his brother informed him that he is not at all anxious regarding the outcome of the affair and expects to be released in a few days.

A physical examination of Neal, some time previous to the fight indicated that he was subject to heart failure.

Julia Magruder's New Novallette.

The Ladies' Home Journal has secured Julia Magruder's new novallette, which she has named "The Voice in the Choir." The story concerns a young Southern girl who serves as a nurse in a hospital during the Spanish-American war. In the discharge of her mission it falls to her lot to care for the man whom she might have married six months before. Injuries to the eyes necessitated his having them tightly bandaged, so he is lovingly cared for by the girl of his heart without her identity being revealed to him. With such a plot it may be readily seen that Miss Magruder has written a strong story, one full of stirring events.

A Queer Offer.

The Kansas State Fair committee which offers General Fonston the insult of $1,000 cash to come home and repeat his river swimming feat on a little stream in this State, the committee furnishing the blank cartridges and the imitation Filipinos, must have a singular conception of the honor and dignity of such a man as General Fonston. Management of that order would not hesitate to turn an honest penny on a clicker with the Angel Gabriel for a rehearsal of the last trumpet business.—Record-Union.
